

TO INSTAL WIRELESS

PACIFIC MAIL COMPANY IS NOW
STATED TO BE MAKING PRE-PARATIONS.

It is now announced that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company will install wireless apparatus aboard the steamships Siberia, Korea, Manchuria, Mongolia and China.

The Occidental & Oriental Wireless Company, which controls between forty and fifty wireless stations on the United States mainland is interested in the installation of a station here and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the Occidental & Oriental Wireless Company are negotiating for the establishment on this island of a station that will meet all up-to-date requirements. The Matson Steam Navigation Company is also in on the deal and the Oceanic Steamship Company has been approached with the suggestion that the steamships Alameda and Mariposa be equipped with the De Forest system of wireless, the system which seems to be the most popular and which is proving by far the most effective on the coast.

Matson led the opening dance in the wireless advance down here and Matson is largely responsible for the impetus now manifest. He stated recently that he would follow up the installation of wireless aboard the steamships Lurline, Enterprise and Hiloian with the installation of a station here able to receive and send long distance messages.

The Pacific Mail S. S. Company then took the matter up in San Francisco with the Occidental & Oriental Wireless Company which has plans for stations throughout the Pacific, in this Territory, the Philippines, Alaska, Samoa, Japan and Australia. The steamship companies which are using or contemplate using the De Forest system are arranging to join the enterprise for mutual benefits and other things are likely to be common within a year or so in these ports.

WORD CONTEST

The Star will give a prize of three months' subscription, to the Daily Star, for the first correct guess at the missing words in the letter of A. S. Humphreys to J. Carlo. The letter was published this morning and concludes with the following sentence: "I do not wish to be attacked by even such a * * * as the author of the first article published in the Bulletin."
The detective-member of The Star staff has secured the missing words. Who can guess them?

No Will!

When a married woman dies, leaving no will, her husband gets one-third of her estate, and her children the balance of it.

If there are no children, the husband gets one-half of it, and the balance goes to the wife's father and mother or sister and brother, or the children of the latter.

Would you like to have your property divided in this way?

Better have us draw up your will at once, and in the proper way. We'll do it free of charge, if you will make us one of your executors.

FRISCO'S PROGRESS

HONOLULU BUSINESS MAN SUR-
PRISED BY THE RAPID RE-
BUILDING OF THE CITY.

Eugene Campbell of the Waterhouse Trust Company returned this morning on the Alameda from a short vacation trip to the Coast, where he has been visiting his family. Campbell had nothing but the best news about San Francisco. "I was very much surprised to see how the re-building of the city was progressing," he said. "It seems to me that buildings are going up over night. Since my last visit the improvement that has been made is wonderful. Everybody whom I talked with seemed to have great hopes for the future. The money stringency has cleared up a good deal throughout the country, and confidence is being restored in such a measure that in a very short time the normal state of affairs will exist again. The election of Mayor Taylor in San Francisco has made the city different already, and the people of means who were not willing to invest money before the election have been very active since November."

"Of course there is always a lull in business the year before presidential election, and to a certain extent the usual state of affairs is existing all over the country."

"The retail business houses did a wonderful Christmas business, and no one would realize that there had been a panic only such a short time before. San Francisco is going to be even better than she was before the fire after the buildings are all finished, and unless some terrible disaster again overtakes her, she will be the greatest city on the coast in a very few years. Some say that in ten years the city will be finished, but at the rate of building now I think that she will be built up again in five years."

"Regarding the future of the Oceanic S. S. Co., I heard that the three big ships would probably be sold to the Hawaiian Mahogany Company, and that they would be converted into oil burners at once, but I am unable to say if the news is authentic or not. I also heard that in the event of the subsidy bill being passed by Congress, the Spreckels' interests would build immediately several new modern steamers and start again on the Australian run. The final disposition of the company's affairs was to have been settled by the bondholders on the first of the year, and it is almost certain that the three ships will soon be seen again here."

WANTS WRESTLER TO COME HERE

Charley Chillingworth is cabling to New York this afternoon, asking Hitachiya, the champion Japanese wrestler, what purse he will require to come here and wrestle with Mitsuharu, the champion of Hawaii. Hitachiya is a graduate of the Commercial High School of Japan, and with two others holds the championship of Japan. He is 6 feet 4 inches in his stocking feet, and weighs 299 pounds. He has recently been at the White House showing the President the art of wrestling, and is about to start for home, and the reason for the cable is the fact that he may return home via Europe, and the Japanese here are anxious to have him come this way instead.

UNCLE SAM MAY GET KENTWELL.
W. W. Thayer, special attorney appointed by the Attorney General to investigate the defunct Hawaiian Realty and Maturity Company, with a view of recovering as much as possible for the victims of the concern, and if possible to convict the officials of the company of deliberately wrecking it, stated this morning that in all probability he will ask District Attorney Breckons for his assistance in bringing back L. K. Kentwell, the promoter and first president of the company, now in Jersey City, in order that criminal action may be instituted against him.

COULD NOT GET ASHORE AT PANAMA

Mow Kwong, a naturalized Chinese man of the Territory, returned here on the Siberia from Panama, where he was refused admittance by the authorities.

Mow was at the Capitol this morning. He had his papers and passport in regular form, showing that he had been made a citizen during the Klondike, also during the Republic, and finally under the Organic Act, he became a citizen of the United States upon the annexation. It is possible that the matter may be taken up with the State Department in Washington, as there is no supposed to be discrimination against an American citizen in Panama.

GREATEST BASSO IS FRIEND OF CZAR

RUSSIAN PALACES ALWAYS ARE OPEN TO THEODORE CHALIAPIN. OFTEN HAS SUNG TO PLEASANT COURT TOILET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 32.—Theodore Chaliapin, the greatest basso in the world, who made his first appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House last week, has had an interesting career. The dress he wore like a Russian at all times.

The singer is the only private citizen in Russia to whom the doors of the palaces of the Czar and Grand Dukes always have been open. He could call any time he wished on the Czar at his strongly guarded palaces at Peterhof or at Tsarskoe Selo, and the guard never searched his pockets. Speaking of the Czar, Mr. Chaliapin said: "Since the beginning of the Japanese war the Czar and his family have occupied their Imperial boxes in the opera house in St. Petersburg. Even the Grand Dukes seldom have attended the opera, public recitals or theaters. The Czar is fond of light music and every week I went to his palace to sing to him and the Czarina. The Czar likes very much Schumann's songs with Heine's poems. But he has specially asked me to sing love romances and songs which tell how little about music. Grand Duke Konstantin is the only one of the Czar's family who is interested in music and poetry, having published several love poems and stories."

Mr. Chaliapin is a grand admirer of Tolstol, whom he often visited at his home, and gave recitals. Of the Count the singer said: "Tolstol is very fond of sad love romances and songs which tell how woman falls in her intrigues or a husband commits suicide. Once he was touched to tears by one of my love songs and he never tired of hearing it again and again. But the Count is cautious in showing his emotions, and often after my recital he left the room not to show his feelings."

OCEAN TRAGEDY OFF CAPE HORN

THE AMERICAN SHIP ATLAS ARRIVES AT SAN FRANCISCO WITH AN AWFUL STORY OF THE LOSS OF THE VIKING IN COLLISION—CAPTAIN AND WIFE LAY AFTER A TERRIBLE SCENE IN THE DARKNESS.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 25.—Sailing into its haven on the eve of the day of peace on earth and sea, the American ship Atlas, Captain Dart, dropped anchor off Meigs wharf last night, 275 days out from Baltimore. It ended a voyage made tragic by collision off Cape Horn, attended by the sinking of another vessel, the drowning of the fated craft's captain and the death among his crew. On June 6, at 6 p. m., the Atlas struck the Norwegian bark Viking, Captain Peterson, bound from Hamburg to Callao. In the darkness of the early Antarctic night the vessels collided. Both were badly damaged by the contact, but the bark fared worst. In the terror of the night the crew of the Norwegian boarded the American ship, crawling over tangled shrouds and dangling booms. But Captain Peterson and his wife were not among those who made the dangerous transit. Men on the Atlas say that they heard voices calling from the swirling waters of the cape—calling for help. But it was too dark to render aid, though the Atlas stood by during the night. In the thrashing seas the ship and bark were separated. No one on the Atlas knew where the Viking went, for in the morning there was not a spar floating on the seas.

As the late sun cast its light over the waters of the cape the men on the Atlas made a sad appraisal of their own plight. All hands were safe and 13 men from the lost Viking had climbed to the Atlas' deck when the ships touched. The American craft had her foretopgallant mast and lower yards of the foremast carried away when the Viking passed to oblivion. With it went the jibboom and bowsprit. Several plates in the bow were stove in and the stern was twisted. There were 12 feet of water in the hold and the ship was leaking at the rate of three feet an hour.

All hands were set at the pumps, but the apparatus was not sufficient to pump out the water that rushed in. A bucket brigade was formed by Captain Dart. Following the tactics of a village fire department, the worn crew of the Atlas battled with the other savage element of nature.

Rio de Janeiro was the nearest port at which the ship could seek repairs and its head was turned back up the South American coast, the crew still

WORK IN CONGRESS

LEGISLATIVE RUMOR SAYS THERE WILL BE NO GENERAL LEGISLATION THIS SESSION, REGARDING IMMIGRATION—HOW HONOLULU CAN HELP FIGHT FOR APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF PEARL HARBOR.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23, 1925. The Hawaiian Star.—A careful review of the situation here has shown that it is the policy of those having the matter in charge, that no general legislation concerning immigration will be passed by the present session of Congress.

This is due both to the fact that a general bill was passed last year, and also because the Immigration Commission created by the act will not report for another year, and probably not until the opening of the 64th Congress. However, Col. Hepburn has at my request introduced a bill exempting Hawaii from some of the limitations on European immigrants, and a similar measure has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Clarke of Wyoming.

This bill has been carefully drafted, and will raise the direct question as to whether Congress will make Hawaii an exception as regards some of the restrictions on European immigration.

A sharp discussion in the Senate on December 11th and 12th has again shown the futility of relying on departmental influence for securing general legislation.

The debate was on the submission

EDMUNDS ACT APPLIES IN HAWAII

JUDGE DOLE SAYS IT IS THE DUTY OF THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE TO ENFORCE IT—OVERRULES THE CONTENTION THAT THE STATUTE IS INTENDED ONLY FOR POLYGAMOUS MORMON COMMUNITIES.

United States Judge Dole this morning gave a decision declaring in emphatic terms that the Edmunds act applies here, and that it is the duty of the Department of Justice to enforce it. The decision was on the demurrer filed in behalf of Lee Ha Koo, charged with adultery. It was contended that the law in question was passed especially to suppress polygamy in Utah and was not intended to apply here. In disposing of the contention the court said:

"The defendant was indicted for the offense of adultery and demurred to the indictment, the first ground of the demurrer being that the acts which constitute adultery are not set out in the laws of the United States. Although the section on adultery is somewhat clumsily drawn, adultery is a word whose meaning is fully adjudged and settled."

"The second ground is that the law providing for the punishment of persons guilty of adultery applies only to those Territories where Mormonism is recognized as one of the legitimate institutions of the Territory. This point is untenable. Although the act of 1862 (12 U. S. Stat. L. 501) was aimed at the practice of polygamy in the Territories and other places over which the United States has exclusive jurisdiction, and with certain acts of the legislature of Utah favoring polygamy, and was amended by the act of 1882 (22 U. S. Stat. L.

20), also aimed at polygamy in the Territories and other places over which the United States has exclusive jurisdiction, yet the act of 1882 is a more comprehensive statute containing enactments applicable to the Territory of Utah and the 'so-called Statute of Deseret,' and general enactments appertaining to the Territories of the United States. It deals not only with polygamy but also with the cognate offenses of adultery, fornication and incest clearly as to their scope, intending by its words to deal with the subject of marriage more broadly by punishing all offenses inconsistent with the sanctity of the marriage relation. By the act of 1887 adultery is made a crime against the United States in the Territories and other places over which the United States has exclusive jurisdiction."
